Winner Will Get $540.00 In Cash

The person who wins the grand prize in our mammoth subscription contest can either take the Overland touring car or $540.00 in cash. The car retails at $635.00 at the Jones salesroom in Monessen. Today we publish the contestants to date. The more contestants the easier the race will be for the winner and the less subscriptions it will take.

Now suppose some young man or young woman who has an ambition in life enters with a view of earning enough to provide financial assistance to help with an education or a start in business, to win this first prize means that the start is made. But suppose you don't win the first prize and suppose you are third or fourth in the race, or suppose you are below the prize list, you will get ten per cent. of all the money turned in. This makes a contest where every person who hustles for subscriptions gets rewarded for the work done.

But don't forget that somebody will get the grand prize and don't forget also that the pay received for the grand prize will be the greatest reward for work done, but there is a chance for every person who enters this contest.

The Independent has planned this contest on a broader system than any former event of its kind and we hope to reach a larger field and gain many new subscribers. For full information call at the office and ask for Mr. Wineburg, the contest manager, who will be glad to give you all information.

Missing

Edith May, the 12-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hillman of Monongahela, has been missing from home for almost a month. She was dressed in blue and is of light complexion. The parents are anxious to learn of her whereabouts and any information will be appreciated.

Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Monongahela Valley Basket Ball League in the National Club rooms in Fayette City on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. All clubs interested are requested to be present.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends for their floral contributions and for assistance during the illness and death of our son James.

MANY ACTIVE CONTESTANTS IN SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN

It is possible that many do not as yet understand the terms upon which you may profit so handsomely by becoming a contestant in the Daily Independent's eighteen hundred dollar contest. It would be unfair to them were we to permit them to remain in ignorance. You are unfair to yourself if you do not acquaint yourself with every detail of this contest which we are publishing from day to day in these columns.

The contest will not close until January 8th, it is hardly started yet, it having been announced November 22nd. Now is the time to wake up—get into the campaign with the determination to come out ahead. Don't you realize what the Independent is trying to do for you? Just think, did you or anyone else in this part of the country ever before have the chance to win such valuable prizes absolutely free, simply by securing subscriptions to the Daily Independent?

It is impossible for us to understand why anyone should hesitate to enter a contest in which such a magnificient array of prizes is to be given away, simply for the securing of subscriptions for such a newspaper as the Independent.

Don't let your bridge end in midstream, remember there is always another side. Think before it is too late. Don't journey through life thinking the world owes you a living—the world owes no man or woman a living and he or she who has health and opportunity and is not willing to use their own individuality to obtain success deserves to suffer.

Now is the time that your friends can assist you without extra cost to themselves. Everybody wants to read the news while it is news, so this shows you how you can make your list of acquaintances of value to yourself without any extra cost to themselves, but one requirement is essential, and that is to make every minute of your leisure time count while it will do the most good.

The subscribers of the Independent expect to pay for same or they would not be taking it. Get the subscribers, old and new, to give you their dues to pay for them and thereby secure the votes that go with it. Persuade them to pay at least six months or a year if possible. Each dollar you secure on subscriptions is the same to you as finding so many votes.

Remember the old saying, "Every little bit added to what you already have, makes just a bit more." This is a true saying and one that all contestants should continually keep before their eyes, as in no other way can the contestants show they are interested than by bringing in votes daily. The secret of all success is in grasping the opportunity when it appeals. This may be your opportunity to secure a magnificient compensation for a few weeks' work. The chance may never come again to win such valuable prizes in such a short time.

Subscription blanks, letters for your friends and instructions how to win are to be had at the office. Call or write Contest Department, Daily Independent, Monessen, Pa.

Archbishop Paid Respects To City

Last Sunday there came to Monessen a man, commanding in appearance, dignified in manner, courtly in address, from whose eyes shown the kindly greetings of the love of a father and brother to the many who came to bid him welcome. This man, bearing a message from his church, in far away Syria, war scourged and blood stained was Germanos, Archbishop of Baalbek, on an errand from the Syrian Greek Orthodox church to the church in America.

It was a commendable day for the Syrians of Monessen and vicinity, and all sought to do honor to their most worthy and distinguished churchman.

Services were held during the day by the Archbishop, assisted by the Rev. George Michaels, pastor of the Monessen church, and others from away. After the services, the Archbishop, in company with those assisting as well as a large number of others, became the guests of Michael Joseph, where a bounteous dinner was served and the time spent in social enjoyment. The host and his good wife made everyone welcome and the occasion was a joyous and notable success.

The Syrian people can well congratulate themselves, can be thankful, that the day came when they could commune with and lay their plans and hopes, their trials and trouble before their Archbishop, and receive from him the friendly assurances, admonitions and encouragements the case warranted.

Each could go home lighter in heart, in having come in contact with a man who listened to them, whose heart responded readily and whose kindly demeanor and gentle manners will ever leave a glow and warmth in their hearts, who brought to them news of their far away home, something of the past.

The good wishes and hopes of all go with the Archbishop in his mission and may much good come of it.

A Guest.

TODAY AT THE STAR—BESSIE BARRICALE IN "THE REWARD."

Fire Alarm System Next

Much interest is being manifested in the next regular meeting of council by all those interested in bringing our fire fighting equipment up to a standard of efficiency. At this meeting the bids will be opened for the installation of a fire alarm system, and the fire committee will recommend the purchase and installation of a system if the bids warrant it. It is believed a majority of council will approve of the recommendations of the committee.

For a number of years there has been talk of a fire alarm system that would meet the demands of the town. The present telephone system is inadequate, inefficient and an entirely back number for a town the size of Monessen and with its promised future growth.

With a telephone arrangement, the only way to sound an alarm of fire for a town with 20,000 people, there is a great risk of serious fires. The means of reaching a fire at present is the best that can be supplied and what we need now is the assurance of immediate alarm in case of fires, with additional hose necessary, then this town can demand of the Underwriters association, insurance rates in keeping with the equipment provided. The committee has worked out the location of the boxes in a manner to take care of every section of the town and

Help Create Employment

The thing of pre-eminent importance in this country, as in others, is to create employment by developing business activities. He who fights business is, therefore, fighting employment, fighting prosperity and making it useless to pray for spiritual graces, because he has developed conditions which mean empty pocketbooks and empty stomachs and lack of clothes.

When once the country fully understands the truth of this situation men will realize as never before that the constructive, upbuilding forces in agriculture, in manufacture, in railroad work are the forces that make the foundation on which to build spiritual graces and create ethecal advancement.

Poverty is a curse. It saps the vitality of the individual and of the nation. He who does most to destroy poverty is doing most to advance humanity.

Throughout the land there are millions of people whose stomachs would be better filled, whose wages would be higher, whose clothes would be newer and whose food would be more nourishing if the politicians who for the last decade have been running this country almost unto its ruins could be banished to some desert island and left there to make their own living instead of living as they have been doing, on the country.—Manufacturers' Record.

The Rewards of Thrift

Two business girls who couldn't stand boarding moved into a little flat. They found the rent was no more than for two separate rooms in the boarding house, but they had to do the housework themselves. Next these girls dreamed of a little house with a garden. And now they own a place of seven acres just outside a large city. Work of the kind which many women call drudgery made their dream come true, they say.

"We found that human labor is the highest paid element in the cost of living" says one of them. "We discovered that it doubles the price of a loaf of bread—so we baked our own bread. It makes a $3 hat cost $10—so we trimmed our own hats. "We never paid anyone for doing what we could do just as well ourselves." There is one secret of thrift. It is the only secret back of many a substantial savings account.

Needs to be Robust

We are glad that General Huerta is recovering from his recent serious illness. Not that we have any too much sympathy for the man who is reaping the just punishment of a traitor, but because he is a guest, though an unwelcome one of the military authorities of this country.

Huerta is under arrest and in custody of the government. In justice to curselves, his physical welfare should be scrupulously looked after so that when normal conditions are sufficiently restored in Mexico to guarantee him a fair trial, Uncle Sam may be able to return him to the proper offices of that country in A No. 1 physical shape. And Huerta will need to be real strong and robust about that time, we are inclined to believe.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

Will Provide For Training School

Preparations are being made by the Board of Directors of the Monessen-Charelroi hospital through D. M. McClosky to amend the charter of the institution to include a training school for nurses. Miss Anna E. Kunze, the new superintendent of the institution, has had an extended experience with training school work in various institutions since 1903 and is very desirous to get a training school started here.

Likely a two and a half year term will be provided including certain branches of work gained by affiliating with the larger hospitals. One of the chief objects in the establishment of a local training school is to give young women living in the vicinity, who desire to take up nursing, an opportunity to serve their apprenticeship and at the same time gain credit for the time and experience in getting a diploma and state registration.

Lectures will be provided by various members of the staff and visiting physicians from local and surrounding towns, who are able and willing to assist in the training. Likely applicants will be received soon for these positions in the new training school.

No Necessity For Idleness

Harrisburg, Pa., November 26—"If an able bodied man stops you on the street to negotiate a ten cent loan or applies at your kitchen door with a hard luck story that he cannot get a job, give him the address of the nearest State Employment Agency."

That is the advice of Jacob Lightner, director of the State Employment Bureau of the Department of Labor and Industry, who declares that orders for war equipment from European countries have caused a dearth of laborers for metal and munition plants.

"It is mainly a matter of geography if an able bodied man, who is willing to do any kind of work cannot find employment," said Director Lightner today. "If there is no work in his immediate locality, a postal card to the State Bureau of Employment, Masonic Temple, Harrisburg, will bring a reply that will outline definitely where he can find a job.

"The Employment Bureau can supply jobs for 200 laboring men. One firm wants machimsts. That company will pay from 32½ to 35 cents an hour to machinists and will provide permanent employment.

"Farmers throughout the state are beginning to feel the effects of the demand for labor by the munition factories, and are appealing for farm hands.

"The Bureau has many applications from men who want managerial or other highly specialized positions. It cannot always provide such jobs, but it does want to hear from laborers and metal workers.

"Don't give a cent to the able-bodied panhandler who stops you on the street for a dime. Refer him to one of the Employment Bureaus of the State. They are located at Harrisburg; at 1519 Arch street, Philadelphia; and Room 4, Hannan building, Johnstown, Pa."

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Box 8 Allyn, Wash.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"They are damned pirates!" said Wyndham. "I'll not have it"

"Pirates or not, sir," said the executive officer, "they will sink us if we don't round to."

The next instant he took the matter into his own hands. The engine bells clanged below. The ship slackened speed, stopped, and lay rolling in the sea. By this time the boats of the Adelina were putting out, well packed with marines. They swarmed aboard now without invitation, and appeared eminently ready for any business that might be offered.

"Who are you?" demanded Wyndham. "What do you mean by boarding my boat?"

"What do you mean by sending a wireless, sir?" demanded the officer of marines. "You called us, and we are here. What is wrong?"

"I will tell you what is wrong," broke in Count Frederick here, pushing his way forward. "We are two prisoners here—a young lady and myself. We have been mishandled, both of us, by this ruffian here. He ordered me in irons for no reason in the world except to give him better his own way with this young lady. He is neither officer nor gentleman. Having no means of reckoning with him, I, myself, ordered the wireless sent out to Gretzhoffen I called you on my own responsibility. We needed help, and we thank God you have come."

The master of the Princess now stood crestfallen, much of his bravado gone. "I meant nothing," said he.

"I will forget it all, captain, if you let me go—although we ought to blow you out of the water," said Frederick, "and all like you. You are not fit to fly any flag, least of all the good one that you disgrace. Clear out with you, and leave these waters. If you show again we will sink you without an instant's hesitation."

"Who are you?" demanded Wyndham suddenly, impressed by the force of these words.

"I am Count Frederick of Gretzhoffen, of the king's cabinet, and his general in chief as well," said Count Frederick. "This is the government boat for which I called. Aboard it yonder is the prime minister of our kingdom. We are a small people, sirrah, but we do not lack spirit. Send for your own ships if you like, and blow down our walls—you are a stronger people than ours. But we will see them fall before we will humble ourselves to such as you. As to what you have done—say one word more, and we will sink you and take our chances with your flag."

Count Frederick, having thus spoken, turned away, and paid no more attention to the master of the Princess.

"Come," said he to Kitty, when at last he had found her.

In a few moments the two were on board the yacht of their own country—or at least that of Count Frederick. With a final shot of defiance to the craft from which they now had escaped, the Adelina again got under way and swept a wide curve around, heading back for the port of Gretzhoffen. The Princess, soon hull-down in the distance, made her way off as best she liked, to be held thereafter only in a contemptuous memory.

CHAPTER LXXIV.

The King of All Countries.

Count Frederick signified to the prime minister that affairs of state were little to his liking at this time, and that he desired to be alone. On the deck of the Adelina, therefore might now be seen but two persons—Count Frederick and Kitty Gray. They sat near the rail, both silent, the girl looking out over the rippling sea, across which the good boat now was leaping on her homeward way.

"Mademoiselle," said he softly, his hand falling on hers as it lay on the rail, "mademoiselle—"

She stirred—moved—but did not withdraw the hand. Still she looked out across that sea beyond whose waves lay her own country, so very far away.

"Mademoiselle," said he once more, "see, we are going home."

She half turned to him at this—though still her hand lay under his.

"Soon," said she at length, sighing, "I must be going." Her voice had no elation in it after all.

"Going, mademoiselle, where?" rejoined Count Frederick.

"Home, across the sea. It has all been like a dream. I wonder if I am awake, if I am alive."

"I thank heaven that you are both, mademoiselle. As to your return, how can that be?"

"My work is done here. I have no reason for remaining."

"No reason, mademoiselle? Our work is but beginning—I say, our work. Mademoiselle—Katharine—you know, you surely know!"

He could see the color rise in the cheek turned away from him, but she made no answer.

"Oh," he went on rapidly, "I know—do I not know? Some power drove us on—some good purpose was under your coming here—it was some plan of fate which brought you. As you have said, the coin itself spoke with its broken tongue. All the time it has been crying out, endeavoring to speak—to tell what was hid—to tell us, mademoiselle, what was right."

"Yes," said she, slowly. "Liberty—justice—that was the message that it meant, perhaps. Those were the buried treasures which so long have been lost to this people."

"Yes! But we have found them all—we own the key to all of them now—as we like we may use all these for the good of this country. Yonder weak king must go. The people! I see now that the king is for their use, not they for his! To serve wisely and justly—mademoiselle, it was you who taught me the beauty of that ambition!"

Silence fell again. She did not speak. She dreaded to hear what yet she longed to hear.

PAIGE

The Standard of Value and Quality

Quality Versus Price

The new Paige Light Six was built according to designs, specifications and ideals that produce motor car excellence.

Quality—a quality that means service, comfort and satisfaction—was the aim.

Price was not the goal. There was no straining to cut down to a certain figure—with the inevitable compromises.

It is easy to manufacture a car for a price.

It is quite another matter to build a quality car of one hundred points excellence and yet keep within a cost figure that appeals to the man of modest purchasing powers.

The price of the five-passenger Paige "Six-36" is $1095.

At that figure it is a car of remarkable value, offering more for every dollar it costs than any other car in its field.

It is a car that is sweeping its way across the field of competition on the basis of quality alone.

Judge it and make your comparisons according to the standards of quality.

If you need a car that accommodates seven people, examine the Paige "Six-46"—another Paige quality achievement—for $1295.

Odd Bits of News

Norris City, Ind.—Queer things are sometimes found in a coal mine. Recently a miner dug out a piece of slate which looked like a shoe-sole; even the sewing on the edges appearing perfect. Not long ago another miner found a perfectly formed spinning top, made of slate.

Ft. Worth, Tex.—As the trap was sprung at the execution of C. A. Meyers, the hangman's noose completely severed the head from Meyer's body.

Stroughton, Wis. — Mrs. Sigrid Larson, 95 years old, talked for the first time over a telephone recently. Up to two months ago she was deaf, but her hearing was restored to her suddenly.

Chicago, Ill.—"Stop thief!" The cry echoed through the city hall, and a passer-by clutched the flying coat tails of Stephen McBett. At the Central police station Mrs. Marie Alphonso testified that McBett became nervous, when they went to get a marriage license and started to run, and that she called "Stop thief" because she knew if he got away she could never get him to the marrying point again.

we make known to our patrons that the successor of this great serial picture will be "The Girl and the Game," in fifteen episodes, featuring Helen Holmes, world over known as the fearless railroad detective girl. In all the world there is but one actress whose capabilities fit her to interpret the heroine role in this stupendous screen novel. That one is Helen Holmes, the fearless film star. She is the empress of dare devilry and is most beautiful. 1t

Ten year old Olaf Tryggvesson, an orphan, is discovered by a mission worker wandering about New York. She sends him west with a party of motherless children, and on the way the train stops. Olaf gets off unnoticed and wanders away. He is found by an Indian and brought to his camp. Dead Shot Jackson, a bad man, and his partner visit the camp and during a fight over a game of cards, Jackson's partner, the Indian and his squaw are killed. Blue Wing, an Indian boy, is knocked senseless. To cover his crime, Jackson binds Blue Wing, carries him to Canyon Creek, and after blaming the boy for the killing, turns him over to the angry miners. Olaf who was an unseen witness of the shooting, arrives at the Creek and finds a friend in Parson Bill. Olaf hearing Blue Wing is being tried for his life, decides he ought to be a witness for the defense. He arrives just in time to save Blue Wing from the gallows by refuting Jackson's testimony, and telling the truth about the shooting.

Jackson then holds up the court at the point of a revolver and escapes. Olaf becomes the hero of the hour and is adopted by the camp. Some time later the Morrison family arrive from the Middle West and establish a Sunday School at their camp. Everyone in town becomes a member and Bill falls in love with Mary Morrison. During one of the services Dead Shot Jackson tries to shoot up the meeting. Mrs. Morrison induces the men to lay aside their fire arms and Jackson tries to shoot Parson Bill, but Olaf quickly steps in front of the latter and receives the bullet in his shoulder. Jackson is overpowered and about to be hung when Olaf intercedes for him and through the "Little Angel's" influence, he is released. Parson Bill and Mary Morrison marry and later their child becomes a companion to Olaf.—Bijou theatre, Monday, Nov. 29. 1t

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There are Other Monessen People Similarly Situated

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Monessen residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. W. Koerner, 119 Knox avenue, Monessen, says: "I had a bad fall which injured my back. I suffered from a constant pain across my loins and in the morning I was always worse. If I stooped, a sharp pain caught me and I couldn't straighten. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural and caused me annoyance. I didn't rest well and rheumatic pains made it hard for me to get about. I was often so lame that I had to sit on one cushion and I had puffy sacs beneath my eyes. I doctored and tried different medicines, but got no relief. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. drove away most of the trouble. I take this medicine off and on as a kidney tonic and it keeps me in good health."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Koerner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
